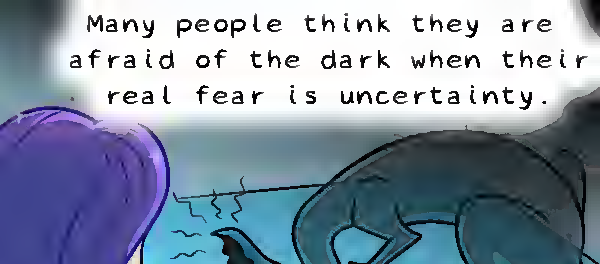
I am Kivuli Noctua, mistress of darkness.
It is my duty to rule over the shadows and tame the demons that reside within them.

Many people think they are afraid of the dark when their real fear is uncertainty.



They cannot see clearly into the darkness, and thus they are afraid of its possibilities.

But what they don't realize is that every person is capable of molding their darkness into something positive.
The only thing keeping them from doing so is their own fear.

The darkness has always been particularly drawn to me.
And I, too, was once frightened by it.

In my infancy, before I was fully aware of my powers, I naively tried to befriend a shadow...

My innocence made me easy prey...
Needless to say, we did not become friends.